Vheda Health is humanizing healthcare, through technology. Our effective and innovative mobile health software provides the right mix of human touch and technology, saving payers an average of $15,000 per prevented hospitalization for high-risk chronic populations.

Challenge:

Vheda Health, which is geared towards high-risk chronic populations, wanted to capture a real-time understanding of their members state of health and identify interventions before a member is on the path to being hospitalized. A key challenge they faced was how they were going to get access to all of the apps and devices on the market today. With millions of apps and devices currently on the market and that number expected to continue to grow, Vheda Health realized they needed to look for a partner that could manage all of these integrations vs. the one-off integrations they were doing in house.

Solution:

With Validic, Vheda Health saved time by providing single point of entry to more than 205 apps and devices. Validic allowed Vheda Health a greater focus on delivering results for their customers, which includes $17,175 net savings per member per year, 50% cost reduction, and 46% hospitalization reduction.
